When the race was over Mr. Keene

Notter took Colin up too soon. It was a dangerous thing to do, but the colt won, there's no use in finding fault. Isn't be a great racehorse?"

There isn't a horse in the world that can beat him, in my opinion," said H. The Withers, which is one of the American turf classics. was run from 1874 to 1889, inclusive, at Jerome Park. After that the race was run at Morris Park, first "over the hill" and later over what was known as the "Withers mile." It was decided for the first time at Belmont Park in 1905, when Mr. Belmont's Blandy untant was successful, while last year

August Belmont will sail for England in few days to see his colt Norman III., winner of the Two Thousand Guiness, run in the Derby at Epsom on June 3. Otto Madden bas been engaged to ride. Mr. Belmont, it is eald, will also go to France to see Norman III. start in the Grand Prix, for which the colt already one of the public choices. Mr. nont's Dame Beauty, a full sister to Beldame, who has not been to the races yet, will start in the English Oaks on June 5.

The layers won more money yesterday than on any previous day this year. The card looked comparatively easy to the public thousands of dollars were taken to the track for the purpose of putting the chalkers was the only favorite to win.

Juvenile Stakes was a body blow for the public. He opened at 11 to 20, but there was such a big play on him that he was backed down to 9 to 20. This caused Joe Madden to go up from 3 to 4 and Statesman from 3 to 5. J. E. Madden was positive that his colt win and told his friends so, but few would accept the tip, believing that Casque was invincible. Joe Madden, incidentally, showed a big improvement over his previous race, when Casque beat him easily fast track at the same distance. Both carried 110 pounds on that occasion, while in yester-day's race they shouldered 122. Joe Madden's share of the stake was $5,495, while his owner had a good wager down to book. Pre-Park were First Water. De Mund and Smoker. While the horses were being saddled, for the first race a crowd of perhaps fifty men stood near Madden's colt Sir Martin. Madden, who was in a jocular mood, said as Garner climbed into the saddle: "Well, boys, it's going to be a pleasant day, and as I want you all to begin right I'll tell you now that this colt will win. Go in and get a bet down and be happy!"

But nobody believed Madden, for in a previ-ous race Uncle Jim had beaten Sir Martin four lengths. In that race Uncle Jim beat the barrier by several lengths and also received five pounds from the Madden colt. They met at equal weights, however, yesterexpect for be backed his colt with a good bet at the last moment. Sir Martin closed at 12 to 5 Uncle Jim on the other hand, opened was beaten down to 9 to 20. He didn't beat the barrier this time and was beaten, alugh with a better ride he might have won. The books made a great haul, particularly as Queen Eleanor was solidly backed at 4 to 5

Madden also handed out Salvidere as another sure winner, but he did not take Old Hard Luck into consideration. Neither did he figure much on Good Luck, the horse that upset his plans. Salvidere was badly beaten the other day, but Madden said he would show an improvement in the handicap, even though he had up top weight and conceded twentytwo pounds to Good Luck. The wise money all went on Salvidere, who was played from 7 to 5 to 4 to 5, while Good Luck, opening at 2,

If Salvidere had not been thrown ento the rails by Master of Craft near the head of the stretch he could not have lost. He was going at top speed when the foul was committed, so that Notter had to pull up. After that it looked as if Good Luck, too, crowded him a bit in the flerce duel to the wire. The disqualification of Master of Craft did not help the books any, for all the money that was taken in on him straight and place was paid out on Ellisdale to show at evens. Good Luck was well played, but the money won on his success did not cut much of a hole into the big bank rolls lost on Salvidere.

After Sir Martin and Joe Madden had won Owner Madden announced that both colts were eligible for the English Derby, but of course would not be sent across the ocean to start. Madden thinks that Joe Madden is a crackerjack shrewd operators who knew that T. S. Martin never could race successfully over a slow course went to the English jumper John M. P. in the Whitney Memoria Steeple-chase. They made him a steady second choice at a to 5, while T. S. Martin receded from 4 to 5 to 7 to 5, the public, however, betting on him with perfect confidence. Kara was a tip which caused his price to drop from s to e, while Sandy Creeker, another posed good thing, was reduced from 10 to 8. John M. DEAD HEAT IN HENLEY RACE

NEW YORK A. C. AND PENNSYL-VANIA VARSITY TIE.

Great Contest Over the Course on Schuylkill (This is the American Henley)-Yale Wins Pretty Race Records Broken. Except for Good Handling of Card.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.-The American Henley, the annual regatta of the American Rowing Association, took place to-day on the Schuylkill River. The feature of the affair was the first eight oared shells. It was a race sensational enough to make a success of the tamest regatta. After the mile and 550 and University of Pennsylvania crews flew by the judges' flag bow and bow, and the official verdict was a "dead heat."

A great, lusty cheer went up from the crowd that lined the shore, for they had seen a rare contest on the water and besides it knocked nearly ten seconds off the former record for the course. Pennsylvania had the better of the water, and rowing at a 38 to the minute clip led by about half a length to the further inshore, out of the current, and were seemingly doing well, rowing 35. Facing the island the Winged Foot oarsmen raised the stroke to 38 and quickly overhauled the

The time of a minutes 35 seconds was five seconds faster than the Harvard freekmen of three years ago made in the same race in the first double sculls the New York A. C. crew won in 7 minutes 28 2-5 seconds, and this beat the record of 7 minutes 46 4-5 seconds made by the same club last year. The West Philadelphia B. C. pair made a new record by rowing in 8 minutes 31 1-5 seconds, against the previous beat of 8 minutes 22 2-5 seconds by the Detroit Boat Club in 1903. By rowing in 6 minutes 59 1-5 seconds in the First Centipede the Nonparell B. C. of New York beat the old mark of 7 minutes 8 seconds made by the University Barge Club in 1904. The Bachelors Barge Club of Philadelphia broke a record in the first four shells. They rowed in 7 minutes 7 3-5 seconds, against the old record of 7 minutes 19 seconds by the Philadelphia Barge Club in 1905.

The surprise of the day was the victory of Georgetown Prep School in the inter scholastic eight cared race. They not only won but made a new record by going the distance in 6 minutes 45 1-5 seconds, eclinsing the former mark of 7 minutes 2 2-5 seconds by Stone School of Boston three years ago.

Durando Miller of the New York A. C. experienced little trouble in taking the first senior sculls, and in handling the ashen blades he showed marked improvement over his form of last year. His only opponent was Jesse Williamson of the Universisty Barge Club of Philadelphia, the holder of the American Henley record for the course. Williamson held Miller to the trolley bridge, but after they shot under the eye of the structure the winged foot souller drew away and improved his lead at every stroke. He won simply paddling in 8 minutes 8 seconds, just equalling his opponent's mark of three years ago. Williamson was a length and a half behind.
